

How to set up access for your students to STORYWORLD at school and at home.

You may want to download and print this page or bookmark it for future reference.

IMPORTANT: Many schools have “firewalls” that restrict access to websites. Before signing in to STORYWORLD at your school, we suggest you contact your IT department in advance to allow access to STORYWORLD’s websites. Please request access to all three of the following domains:

storyworld.us storyworld.io storyworld.international

First, create a class username when you sign up

When you sign up as an Educator, you will create a class username.

Second, make sure you are signed in to allow student access.

Your students can access STORYWORLD only if you are logged in. (For security purposes, your account will log-off once/week.)

To unlock your account, simply sign-in to your account under “Educators” in the pull-down menu under “SIGN IN” on the STORYWORLD home page (storyworld.us). You’ll sign in with your school email account and password. As soon as you sign-in, all your students can access STORYWORLD right away!

Third, easy log-in for students!

Students log in under “Students” in the pull-down menu under “SIGN IN” on the STORYWORLD home page (storyworld.us).

Under the “Student” tab, students can sign-in at home or at school using the class username you just set up and their own name. (Any name they choose will work.)

The screenshot shows the 'Unlock your class account' sign-in form. At the top, there are tabs for 'Student' and 'Educator', with 'Student' selected. Below the tabs, it says 'Enter the class username provided by your teacher:'. There are two input fields: 'Class Username' and 'Your Name'. Below these fields is an orange 'Sign In' button. At the bottom of the form, there are links for 'Don't have an account yet? Sign up' and 'Forgot your password?'.

Note: If you are signed in as an “Educator”, you will not be able to sign in simultaneously as a “Student” on the same device. If you wish to test a student account, we suggest you first sign-in with your Educator account on your primary computer and then test a “Student” account on any another device.
